

PROFILE

Full stack developer seeking a people-focused and results oriented firm, where my qualifications and skills will be utilized to their best, to improve the company's overall performance.

My professional background is in financial services, but my real passion has always been programming since the first code I wrote at age 18. I have been described by colleagues and supervisors as one who works effectively with a wide variety of other work styles (even under pressure) and a motivational background leader with innovative problem-solving abilities.
